Crossroads
Studies on the History of Exchange Relations in the East Asian World

Crossroads is an international forum for contributions related to the history of exchange relations in the East Asian world, focusing on both its continental (overland) and maritime (overseas) exchange relations of bilateral and multilateral interaction structures. Emphasis is placed on the transfer of culture, science, religions, commodity and product exchange, trade, as well as migration and the organisation of functioning networks across continental and maritime borders, all of which have to be defined in their respective historical and cultural contexts.
